is the Iowa Racing Corporation? They are the actual license holders of all three of the gaming facilities in Pottawattamie County. So here you have the Racing Association taking a part of the fees from casino gambling and dog track gambling in Pottawattamie County, giving them to their brother, who's the foundation, the Iowa West Foundation, and the Iowa West Foundation has distributed $86 million to area organizations. And then the Iowa West Foundation has entered into a limited partnership agreement with the Omaha World-Herald and another corporation for the ownership of the Nonpareil. Maybe, in fact, the editorial represents the moral underpinnings of one individual, or the moral underpinnings of one staff, but I think this information that we're discussing today should raise in your mind the question of what are the real motivations of the Omaha World-Herald. When you own a newspaper and you're taking an opposite position, totally opposite position, it was as good for Iowa as it would be bad for Nebraska, and then when you find out that they're in partnership on that newspaper with the Iowa West Foundation, which is the distributing foundation for casino proceeds to community organizations and other nonprofits, clearly, one can understand why the deal that they have set up works very well for them right now. And it raises the question, maybe, of whether the loyalties of the World-Herald are to Nebraska, or are they to Iowa and that very cozy relationship they have going on over in Iowa? Is the World-Herald arguing for the best interests of Nebraska? That is the question, I think, that this raises. Thank you.

SPEAKER BROMM: Thank you, Senator Beutler. Senator Combs.

SENATOR COMBS: Mr. Speaker, members of the body, I've been soaking up all the opinions and things that I've been listening to throughout the past several days both ways--people that adamantly support gaming, people who are adamantly against it, and even ambivalence like Senator Brown spoke to us about yesterday, and we even had a poem about someone who totally changed their mind. I've distributed a letter to everyone that was sent to me by one of my constituents, Lee and Sharon De Bevoise in Friend, Nebraska. They had lived in Atlantic City and they wanted to be sure that everyone understood what happens to a community when gaming comes there. I rise, surprisingly,
